At 114, Mary Ryan Jeffreys was far and away the best lifter in her class, although it must be said that both Fisher had an uncharacteristically poor day. Likewise, Jeanna Pacaya, Pam Crisp, and Nancy Belliveau, couldn't get a squat in, despite having all done so well together at the YMCA Nationals. Teresa Mims, a gym instructor by trade, demonstrated some great deadlifting and an intense psyche that left her glaring off into infinity even after the lift was completed.

At 123, Felicia Johnson flashed her easy smile and made easy work of most of her lifts, except for a stubborn 369 deadlift that wouldn't let itself be finished, and won her class easily. Fran Krauss of San Francisco had a solid day, as did master lifter Karen Reagan. Judy Pomerantz was great to see. She turns her back on the bar and keeps thrusting her hands down toward the floor when psyching up for the deadlift.

In the 132s, some world class weights were tossed about by several women competitors. Foremost among them was Judith Averbach, who has surged to the forefront in this class recently, after several years of quality progress. She was the strongest in every lift, but in the bench she truly excelled. The North Carolina lifter made 237 nicely, and then made a world record 242 look easy, as well. Constance Powell, a health program administrator who bears some resemblance to Carla Dunlap, was exciting to watch finish, Incredible Bencher...Judith Averbach was one of the most physically impressive competitors at the contest, with exceptional deltoid development, and it was needed for this world record bench press attempt of 242 pounds.

Mary Ryan Jeffreys, after some successful physique competition, she came back to show that she hasn't forgotten what the Powerlifters are about. Results of the testing at the Men's World Championships; all five of the USA lifters tested at that meet failed the test and were disqualified. Handor Bell, Guy Coan, and Phar, and the USA has dropped to 4th place in the team standings for that meet. The drug testing itself was almost a lark at this meet. The women got together after each session, had time to chat and meet each other, before being led off to provide samples which proved to be a less difficult time consuming task than in previous years. Lynda Chicago-Shenow mentioned that meet directors in the future should consider providing lots of beverages for the contestants, such as Gatorade juice (the official beverage of the U.S.P.F.), so they will have less trouble rehydrating and producing a urine sample.

At 97, Cheryl Jones just keeps getting better. She is so good in each lift, that no one, even someone as good as Judy Gedney, the Western Illinois University professor, can come within striking distance of her. Cheryl Taylor, a Bud Mucci find, tallied the top 2 lifters in the class, just ahead of Cathy Chiraini of Nevada, who came with her massive coach. Entries were not heavy in this class, and several others, but that is to be expected with the Far West meet location, and the fact that there will be 3 Women's National titles this year, between the USPF, ADPF, and APF.

At 105, Georgia Ann Leverett put together a remarkable perfect day on the lifting platform. She was closely followed by California's Shirley Gutierrez, who had a shot for the title on her final deadlift, but it went only halfway. Don Amiri mentioned that she is a hot lifter lately, setting PRs almost every time out. Mary Anne Price just about bombed in the squat, but when she got that final try on the books, she sailed smoothly in to 3rd. Possible challengers for the title, Pam Booth and Peggy Box fell on squat technicalities.

WOMEN'S NATIONALS

by PL USA Editor, Mike Lambert

Jay and Lynda Shendow put a move around in with the light switches built in to the chair's structure, along with writing board with loading charts, and even a spare set of flags in case the judging light system failed. Dan also came up with the largest version of the NEC reverse projection television sets to use as a display monitor for the audience. It worked rather well, and in the future, it is hoped to make the writing on the display larger, in which case it will work exceptionally well. Scott and Pauline Gerard were there (they're evenly matched) with his computerized scoring system, which automated many of the local scoring, which worked very nicely as well. The judges were a very well organized, dedicated, and capable crew, headed up by one of Powerlifting's finest people, Al Roy of Montana. They worked extremely hard to make sure no lifter was injured, no mistakes of any kind occurred on the platform, and to keep the meet running smooth and quick, and it did. There was an unprecedented level of medical care at the meet, thanks to the efforts of the U.S.P.F. Sports Medicine Committee. 4 doctors were on hand, along with Stella Henrick, who handled the drug testing. Incidentally, EVERY lifter at the meet provided an IOC style urine sample. The first two will be tested almost getting a 402 deadlift after a terrific effort. Vangie Kizer of Fresno, California did likewise with the same poundage, and Mimi Hitzman, a sales manager, had her share of hard fought attempts, along with what appears to be the most extensive wardrobe of any participant in the contest.

Angela Hill had a unique distinction at this meet. With the new USPF rules as you like in the deadlift, within the time allotted, she could do one in, despite having done as much as 400 previously. "Tricia Boland of Washington, whose photograph went out on the wire services after last year's Women's Nationals, also had difficulties getting any white lights.

Debbie Patton returned to top level competition in a pleasant way, by winning the middleweight division. Changes in her personal life have interfered with her training of late, but hopefully of her is a possible shot at a World title. Teresa Ruskoski was not far behind Debbie and made some nice ties at respectable weights. Her obviously pleasant disposition fit right in with the widespread camaraderie at this meet.

In the 181's, there was talk of a possible 600 pound squat circulating about the meet hotel and they could only be talking about Juanita Trujillo, the Colorado lady who is rapidly becoming the most serious challenge to Juanita. Although she is not completely familiar with her, she is massive muscular, on a scale with some of the great lifters of all time. Marsha McBride (Marie Ya not Marshia) Mecklenburg is a fine track and field competitor and joined another Big Sky athlete, Lorna Griffin, as a national level competitor in powerlifting as well. She got three solid lifts, but that was not close to one being dumped into the bottom. If she can get a big one in at the Worlds, Bev will have a tighty, bunched pack, despite not making the best of it in her best lift. The bench press, Jackie Pierce of Idaho also emerged at this meet but almost disappeared in the squats on subsequent attempts.

In the 148's, another group of America's premier women strength stars grabbed for the national title. Sue Springsteen emerged above the rest, with her mom and father Bev, and made it! The man who missed her 2nd meet, was the only one to do it, after missing her deadlift on a technicality, she quickly took it over and made it! The man who missed the first attempt, was the weight was too heavy found that it got only heavier on subsequent attempts.

Stephanie Virgin, This Wisconsin lifter, who will coach the world team this year, dianita opened with a world record squat, but that was all she got. Her following tries at 523 lighted the necessary 3rd attempt. Her superb deadlifting earned her into the place, over another impressive lifter, Stephanie Virgin, This Wisconsin machine operator, toughed out every lift, and really showed some character, and her real showed some which she almost made, after missing it by a wide margin on her initial, challenge to overcome, because Juanita is solid in the bench, and improved in the deadlift.

Janet Harrell was likewise impressive in the 181's. Although she did not come close to a 292, beach, the lift where she did incredibly well last year, ending with a 319 in the Women's TOP 20 rankings, her other lifts are good quality and led to a fine total. Her husband Paul reports that her bench suffers considerably when she lifts on equipment she's not comfortable with. She is massive muscular, on a scale with some of the great lifters of all time. Marsha McBride (Marie Ya not Marshia) Mecklenburg is a fine track and field competitor and joined another Big Sky athlete, Lorna Griffin, as a national level competitor in powerlifting as well as being a top ranked thrower.

"Does This Mean I Win?"—Annie McElroy delightfully underplayed her dominance of the Superheavyweights team. This upset some competitors who felt that all the time should be chosen for the team. The team at this time, pending the results of the drug testing, is as follows: Cheryl Jones and Judy Gentry at 97, Felicia Johnson at 123, Judith Avard at 132, Sue Springsteen at 148, Debbie Patton at 165, Juanita Trujillo at 181, Lorraine Costanzo at 198, and Annie McElroy at SHW, along with Cardi Regan, Ramona Kennedy and Bernie Gagne will serve as coaches. (Results on page 63)

Creat Tropies.—in the hands of 165 lb. class winners Debbie Patton (left) and Teresa Ruskoski (right), Debbie had gone through a disastrous period of training and was a very surprised and pleased winner in this class.

Another example of a track and field crossover athlete is Lorraine Costanzo, who is steadily moving up the shot put rankings for the USA. She wasn't able to go to the Worlds last year, due to track commitments, Cathy Butter was one of the untutored athletes who bombed out at the 1986 Women's Nationals, possibly due to her limited powerlifting experience, but she has done very well in the physique world, winning the MS., MAINE, and MS. BAY STATE bodybuilding titles, photo and information courtesy of Ed Lubinville.

Mrs. Lambert's favorite lifter of the Women's Nationals was Tanya Talion. Dr. Billy Jack Talion's Louisiana Techters have great collegiate spirit and sharp looking uniforms.

Dr. Mauro Di Pasquale, author of DRUG USE AND DETECTION IN AMATEUR SPORTS, won the World Powerlifting Championship in the 148 lb. division at the 1976 World meet held in York, PA, and has competed in several World Championships meets since that time. His book has been updated with new information in the field and a special offer is now in effect for both the book and the update.

Dear T.J.: Thank you for your kind comments. Your questions have been partially addressed in previous columns, but because of the widespread concern, some of the answers could bear repetition. The average lifter using steroids for short periods of time and in moderate doses, will, as far as presently known, suffer no long term effects if he is healthy and does not have any pre-existing liver, heart, kidney or prostate disease. Many existing health problems, however, can be worsened by the abuse of anabolic/androgenic steroids. These include high blood pressure, diabetes, and liver, heart, kidney and prostate disease. Although there does not seem to be any increase in testicular cancer, the question of increase prostate and liver cancer, even if just marginal, has yet to be decided. M.G.D.

Dear Mauro: I have developed acne scars on my face over the past four years. I had a few from my teenage years, but a lot more now since I've used steroids, mostly D'bol. Can anything be done about them? Lee R.

Dear Lee: The scarring secondary to severe untreated acne can be quite disfiguring. If the acne is still active, I would suggest seeing a dermatologist. Present therapy for acne, even for severe cases of cystic acne, is very effective. The healed scars can be treated by a plastic surgeon in a variety of ways. The newest technique is to fill in depressed areas with collagen injections. If your scarring is superfluous, with no deep pits, then a facial sanding might be adequate. Either way, it's best to be seen by a dermatologist or plastic surgeon for evaluation and treatment. M.G.D.

Ask the Doctor

This column will answer questions about drugs used by athletes and the available detection techniques for these drugs. I will also occasionally answer questions concerning health and training problems which do not directly relate to drug use and detection. I welcome any questions in which the reader feels I might be of some help. Please send all questions and comments to: Mauro Di Pasquale M.D., 23 Main Street, Warkworth, Ontario, Canada, K0K 3K0

Dear Mauro: I've enclosed some information on two products. A homeopathic drug and an herbal preparation, which the manufacturers say are as good or better than steroids. I tried the first one for 2 months but found that my lifting didn't improve much and I didn't gain any muscle. I got more effects from some speed that I used at one time before my workouts. How good are these preparations? Stan M.

Dear Stan: None of these products are anabolic per se, in the way that anabolic steroids are, that is they do not increase strength or muscle directly, only by indirect means. Many of these products contain stimulants such as caffeine and ephedrine. These stimulants may increase energy and drive, thus enabling more strenuous workouts which in turn might lead to increases in strength and muscle mass. Most of these anabolic preparations have a psychological or placebo effect. Their value to a lifter would be determined by the impact of the manufacturer's advertisement campaign. M.G.D.

Dear Mauro: I think that your question and answer section in POWERLIFTING USA is very interesting and informative, and that you are exceptionally qualified to answer such questions. Also, congratulations on the huge success of your book, the best on anabolic steroids. I have a couple of questions on anabolic steroids to which I would appreciate your response. Are ones chances of developing testicular cancer increased while on anabolics? Does the use of anabolic steroids accelerate the development or progression of any other cancers or diseases? T.J.

Question & Answer

Your training questions answered by Roger Ester, 1979 Senior National Powerlifting Champion, World Record breaker as a Midheavyweight, and the 1985 MR. IRON MAN. For a quick response to your training question send $10 to Roger Ester, 1413 Holgate Drive, Anaheim, California 92802.

DEAR ROGER: What's the safe way to use forced reps? 1: add weight and do only forced reps, or 2: just do one set at the end and force out some reps to failure. James Isaac

DEAR JAMES: Forced reps in their true form are used more in bodybuilding than powerlifting. You find that bodybuilders do forced reps on the majority of their sets in every workout. This is where all the screaming and yelling comes from in the gym. If you go to Gold's or World Gym in Santa Monica, you will see many of the bodybuilders going to complete their failure with each set. The lifter's training partner helps him through the last few reps of the set. After a short rest, the lifter will go through the cycle again. Powerlifters use the "overload" principle more often. I have used overloads for years, and so has every other national caliber powerlifter I have trained with. The major difference between what I call forced reps and overloads is that in forced reps you use weight that you normally lift, but need help with due to fatigue. Overlifts use a weight that you normally can't lift and need to have a spotter help you through the movement of one or two reps. Rick Weil uses "negatives" form with great success. Roger Ester

DEAR ROGER: I'd like to know the difference, in your mind, between taking a handoff in the bench and taking the bar out of the rack unassisted. Most of the lifters here take the weight out of the racks themselves. My best bench is 470 which I took out of the rack with no handoff. I've been reading where handoffs increase your bench, but I've tried them with light weights and it seemed more uncomfortable than the unassisted way. Can you really increase your bench by taking handoffs? Also, after doing benches, is it better to work arms and shoulders, or should they be done on a different day? Bob Clark

DEAR BOB: I find your question very interesting. My first thought after reading your letter was "this guy can bench 470 and takes the weight out of the rack by himself?" You just don't know how strong you are! I am truly impressed. To address your question, let's take a look at all the world record holders in the bench press. What percentage of them get the weight from the rack through the use of spotters? The answer is 100 percent. Every national or world class lifter uses spotters in the bench press. The reason for this is simple conservation of energy. It takes an enormous amount of energy to move the bar off the rack. The more energy required to bring the bar to an extended position, the fact is, a lifter CAN bench more by having a handoff than by taking the weight out of the rack by himself. This is not a theory, nor does it vary from lifter to lifter. I have never known a competitive lifter that didn't use a handoff in the bench. I would think that your problem of being uncomfortable with a handoff is that it is not being done correctly. The proper way to receive a handoff is for the lifter to give a signal to the spotter to help him with the weight when he is mentally ready. At the signal, the lifter and the spotter both bring the weight in to position. Once the weight is in position, the lifter by himself, Trouble occurs when the spotter is supporting the entire weight of the rack and then dumps it on the lifter. This throws the lifter off balance and causes him to use up energy to control the weight that he could have used in the benching effort itself. If you want to improve your bench, use a spotter and work with him so your handoff is comfortable. This will save you enough energy to get a couple of extra reps in at the end of the workout. Roger Ester stronger and physically distinct, leads the group to drink, chew, mix, and swallow ridiculous things in an attempt to meet goals which for the most, are totally unrealistic. Everyone can improve, barring organic damage or ill health. Very few can actually meet the goals which they place before themselves. We had one patient present in my office, a lifter with two years of lifting experience. This individual made the ludicrous statement that he would, "Some day, win the Senior National Championship". One, of course, never knows, but the probability is that this man will never be the strongest man on his own street! After two years of what he thought was hard training, he could squat, bench press, and deadlift an aggregate total of less than 1,000 pounds at a bodyweight of just under 190 pounds. I have always been one to encourage others to do their best, within realistic limits. To do otherwise is to invite frustration and depression. Yet, most lifters, most readers of PL USA, do just that, being vaguely satisfied with their lifts, but living with self-inflicted frustration over their inability to do "more". This lack of perceived ability is met with attempts to overcome the impossible with food supplements, herbal mixtures, glandular concoctions, and drug substitutes that in some cases do no more than drain the hard earned money from those who can rarely afford to spend it on products that will never come close to fulfilling the promise they offer. The attitude that allows increases in lifted poundages has nothing to do with the development of strength, and is a joke to those with a true respect for man's ability to rise to the occasion and force him or herself to overcome physical obstacles.

Yes, I have in the past, stated that I used and liked a certain brand of protein powder. I still use it as a protein supplement. It tastes great, and for me it serves a genuine nutritional purpose. It provides me with the necessary protein that my "regular" meals often fail to provide. I have competed in a certain brand of suit, which I always believed was the best on the market, and used certain suits in my pre-meet training sessions. However, this was done with the realization that the suits would allow me to compete with the same advantages enjoyed by the other lifters in the competition, and that they did nothing to actually enhance my strength, or encourage its growth. Isn't it far beyond time that we examined the promises offered by those who would give all of us the gift of strength, and find out for ourselves what works, and what doesn't, and why?

Dr. Ken Leistner is the editor of THE STEEL TIP newsletter, which is published monthly and contains his views on training, equipment, supplements, drugs in sports, etc. See his ad in this issue of POWERLIFTING USA or send $12 for 12 issues to THE STEEL TIP, 54 Fletcher Ave., Valley Stream, New York 11580.

The elusive goal that comes with the next twenty five pound jump is always there and takes the edge off of any excitement that is generated by the most recent success.

When a group of people are motivated so strongly to succeed at something far from the mainstream game to make money, but are in the personal satisfaction that comes with the personal value, they are prone to excesses. While strength is universally admired and respected, and often feared, being strong actually counts for more than getting strong. It is fine to be strong, but to admit that you spend valuable time trying to become stronger and heavier weights. This, too, can be minimally rewarding when you consider all of the frustration that comes with trying to move your lifts up five or ten kilos. There is always satisfaction knowing that you are stronger than the average man or woman, or more powerful physically, than the men or women you see cut it, powerlifters are in "our" group to most of society. Those who are driven to succeed in this limited arena are not the type to rest on any small gain in poundage.

More From Ken Leistner

Each and every month, POWERLIFTING USA Magazine brings you the best in the sport of Powerlifting. routines of the better lifters, advice for those new to the sport, lots of news reports, communications from the officers of the various lifting organizations, and the latest news about the participants, equipment, and rules of the game. All of these are good, in that they serve a positive purpose, bringing information and/or enjoyment to the lifter and observer of Powerlifting.

One of the most interesting parts of the magazine, in my opinion, has always been the advertising. Much of this fact of life is Mike Lambert. Having known Mike for many years, I can say, without hesitation, that he is one of the most honest and straightforward men I have ever known. He is also extremely fair and has tried to present the reader with an unbiased view of the sport since the inception of PL USA. Even the pocket-sized early editions, the ones which caused instant mayhem and blared vision due to the tiny type size used, reflected Mike's commitment to present all that was good and bad in the sport, with the accent on the good. He never took sides editorially, and was respected for this, even when it meant subjugating his personal feelings and opinions.

Mike's unbiased attitude and the fact that advertising is necessary for any magazine's livelihood, has brought us some ads that stretch the imagination. Certain ones fall within the bounds of legal statute, but are unethical in the sense that they prey on the most obvious and most subtle weaknesses that we, as a group harbor. All lifters, competitive and non-competitive, have very private reasons for pursuing what can only be realistically called a relatively dangerous and unrewarding venture. Using three, four, five hundred pounds or more in any of the three competitive lifts does very little that is positive for one's body, while exposing one to a awful lot of potential injury. Training for strength, in a manner that gives maximal stimulation to the musculature while minimizing the forces placed on the connective and bony tissues is very positive, something that I believe should be part of everyone's lifestyle. Preparing for competition, even for those who train in a high intensity, low force manner of most of the time, is not healthy or productive. The exposure to weights that are very heavy, something that must be done if one is to compete well, can cause, and has caused, serious and permanent injury. At best, one might suf-

TRAINING

Advanced Bench Training Routine as told by John Kuc

There is no better demonstration of upper body power than the bench press. The bench press is pure unadulterated power from the chest through it's straight line of vertical travel to lockout. It is a lift that is done with a smaller ratio of muscle to weight than the squat or deadlift. Squatters and deadlifters may lead a bit put out by the popularity of the bench press, but you really cannot blame the unenlightened public. Powerful arms, shoulders and chest are the first images that come to mind when people think of a strong person. That concept is further reinforced when they see champion bench pressers like Mike Hall, Pat Casey, Mel Hennessy, Larry Pacifico and Bill Kazmaier in person. The upper bodies of these gentlemen are enormous.

TRAINING THE BENCH PRESS
My bench press training was influenced by Jim Williams and Pat Casey. I use the word "influenced" because I am not the same person as Jim Williams or Pat Casey. Accepting their routines as the last word and never trying or innovating for myself would eventually have led to a halt in progress. These two men have obviously perfected routines that work best for them. You will do well by seeking all the advice you can from champions, then put it together with knowledge of yourself to make up a routine that is right for you.

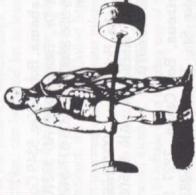

There was no way I could do Jim's routine for the bench five days a week and make progress. My leverages were different and I had a mental block about the bench press. Because it was always difficult for me to make progress, I settled on a routine better suited to my body. It was done two times per week, heavy and light, supplemented by three sets of three forced reps once per week. This method worked well and steady progress started. Soon I was competing and began the physical work necessary to attain it. Then, ten months later, with tons of hard work, 600 was mine.

When I reduced bodyweight and became a 242 pounder, I realized some changes were necessary in my bench program. The forced reps had run their course usefulness and the new leverages and body weight had to be trained differently. After I reduced to 242 pounds my bench bottomed out at a tough single with 425 lbs. I needed to build basic power so my new routine was to bench twice per week, with one heavy and one light day. The heavy day was centered around three heavy sets of three reps done with max weights. If I felt tired or overworked I still did 3x3 with a lighter weight. Sometimes one light week was not enough to recover, so two or three weeks were done light. By the third week I would start rebuilding my heavy sets. This system worked well and my bench slowly approached and then exceeded the 500 lb mark. Assistance work was utilized. The favorite and most

Points to Remember

3. Be patient.

4. Use assistance work wisely.

5. Always use good form.

press will suffer. The second section is made up of two parts. In the first part the bar is pressed from the chest to midpoint. Pectorals and the latissimus dorsi give the initial drive of the press. The second part is from midpoint to lockout. Here the shoulder muscles (deltoid) and triceps take the bar to lockout.

What you must do is determine where your weaknesses lie and tailor your assistance work to correct these weaknesses. Bear in mind that when you are heavy in assistance work, your bench may go down, but when you drop the assistance work and begin concentrating on the bench you will see the benefits.

The following are assistance exercises that I have found to help the bench:

1. Bent arm pullover
2. Lat Bar or dumbbell rows.
3. Curling movements
4. Incline dumbbell press
5. Lying dumbbell press.
6. Flys.
7. Lateral raises.
8. Behind Neck presses.
9. High incline press.
10. Close grip bench press.

11. Pushdowns.
12. Dips with weights.
13. Lying tricep extensions.
14. Lockouts.
15. Forced reps.

TECHNIQUE

In any discussion of bench pressing, technique is always a topic. I feel technique is always a personal matter based on body type, leverages and your own personal style. There have been many personal records set with many different techniques. Some individuals have given up the wide grip and personal leverage, the wide grip would seem to be the most beneficial since the bar will travel the shortest distance and the largest muscle group (chest) will be most involved. I don't advise everyone to switch to this style, and I personally don't use it. I feel this is a personal choice, but you should experiment to find what is right for you. If you do decide to switch hand spacing, remember the change will require some time, since new muscles will come into play.

STATE CHAIRMAN

Message from the U.S.P.F. President

While there are some statements that no one ever thinks of believing, however often they are made, there are others that, because they appeal strong to one's prejudices, are accepted without a moment's reflection. Chuck Braxton phoned the other night to inform me of a rumor that was sweeping the mid-South, from tidewater North Carolina to middle Tennessee, that the USPF was financing the AMWAY promotion. The facts are these: The USPF has not spent a dime on this promotion. All expenses have been borne by AMWAY and Ben Enore, the emerald direct distributor who resides in Pensacola. The Executive Committee approved it because it is a "no-lose" opportunity.

On February 10, the Executive Committee, upon the recommendation of the Masters Committee, provided that the two masters teams for the 1986 Masters World Powerlifting Championships shall be selected from among those who total at the 1986 National Masters, Nationals or Senior Nationals two meets. There will be no guess lifters invited to qualify for these teams at the latter two meets. In order to enter either the Nationals or the Senior Nationals of the IFBB, Bantamweight division, a lifter, who has been taking the proscribed substances, may monitor his preparation, and withdraw from the team prior to its departure, if such a course seems prudent.

Those who would throw prudence to the winds risk a three-year suspension by the USPF, for that is the penalty we have decided to invoke against those who test positive at the 1986 Masters Worlds. The USPF suspension will run concurrently with the three-year IPF suspension. For the purpose of the suspensions the official test results will be conclusive.

At the same Executive Committee meeting we overruled the recommendations of the Women's Committee and selected the United States team to the 1986 Women's Worlds using the "Carpino rule." The Carpino rule is designed to maximize team points, sometimes leaving the home winners in those weight categories where the foreign competition appears to be unusually strong. While it is difficult to fault the logic of the Carpino rule, I had hoped to extend it to the Women's Committee a year's grace, and implement the Carpino rule next year after ample notice to the lifters.

Ramona Kennedy had polled nine of the ten winners to determine their wishes from among those who had applied to the Women's Committee in writing for the position of coach. The Executive Committee unanimously endorsed their two choices, Bernie Gagne and Ramona Kennedy.

Recently, I received a letter certifying that on December 5, 1985, the powerlifting Federation, a letter certifying that on December 5, 1985, the Executive committee of the International Olympic Committee (I.O.C.) had moved to "recognize" the IPF, and by implication, powerlifting. It was indeed a welcome letter, but it has proved to be no passport to membership in the United States Olympic Committee (U.S.O.C.). First we must wait for the U.S.O.C. to receive a notice of powerlifting's recognition. Then, and only "if" the "conditions," if any, that may be attached thereto. Then and only then will we be permitted to start the rather considerable task of meeting the conditions for U.S.O.C. membership in 1987 by their late summer/early fall deadline.

We can but persevere.

Dr. Conrad Coker, President, United States Powerlifting Federation

To: All Members of the U.S.P.F., in Particular. Members of the USPF National Teams for International Competition.
FROM: The Sports Medicine Committee of the U.S.P.F.
RE: Drug testing at Nationals and World Championships.

As most of you are now aware, in an effort to alleviate previous inequities in doping control, the International Olympic Commission's term for drug testing, the Executive Committee of the United States Powerlifting Federation has determined that each member of any USPF team must have shown negative on doping control tests prior to his or her being named a member on that team; that at any drug tested meet sanctioned by the USPF, doping control officers shall collect urine samples from each lifter who totals, that is, the first and second place lifters in each weight classification will be tested, and each subsequent place tested until a negative result (no abnormalities) is found; and finally, that any prospective member of the team representing the mid-South, from tidewater North Carolina to middle Tennessee, that the USPF was financing the AMWAY promotion. The facts are these: The USPF has not spent a dime on this promotion. All expenses have been borne by AMWAY and Ben Enore, the emerald direct distributor who resides in Pensacola. The Executive Committee approved it because it is a "no-lose" opportunity.

With regard to the amphetamine-like central nervous system stimulants, the long-acting types can be ascertained in the urine for several days, and the short-acting, oral, sublingual, or injectables, can be found for at least a few days in most cases.

Unfortunately, there is no all-inclusive list of the banned drugs in each of the major categories, that is, anabolic steroids, and CNS stimulants, but if you have a question about a particular product, the toll-free United States Olympic Committee phone number which you may call to request information about a specific product is 1-800-233-0393.

Suffice it to say that it is incumbent upon each of you to be VERY conservative in your determination of time elements involved, since there is only one way to test out "negative" and that is to refrain from utilizing any of the banned substances.

In closing, we would also like to reiterate that if you are utilizing any substances to enhance your training, you must all be aware that not all containers contain what they are labeled, not all manufacturers and distributors provide that which they purport to be providing, as can be attested to by several who have been found guilty for banned substances, having been in utilizing what they thought was a "safe product", from an untrustworthy provider.

In a similar vein, even if you do obtain some of the "safe products", with regard to their not being on the banned list, the vast majority of which are either overpriced, non-efficacious, or otherwise dangerous in their own right, whether "illegal" or not.

There are those who test positive prior to becoming an official member of the team, and that those who test positive at the 1986 Junior World's Championships will be suspended for 3 years from the date of the championships, not only by the IPF, but also by the USPF. Any member of the United States Masters team who is found positive will also be subject to the same suspension.

Since this is an apparent drastic departure from prior methodologies utilized by the Sports Medicine Committee of the United States Powerlifting Federation, it is hoped to become an ongoing education process. This is especially important for all prospective members of the USPF National teams for international competition, but shall, of course, include all members of the USPF who may compete in national championship meets.

The samples will be collected utilizing IOC protocol, under the direction of official IPF drug officers, and handled accordingly. The actual testing of the urine samples will be conducted by an official IOC-approved laboratory, using the equipment and personnel that has been and will be used for IOC testing, but will include testing only for anabolic steroids, testosterone, and the amphetamine-like central nervous system stimulants.

Because of the increased sophistication of the personnel and equipment, the drug testing has become very specific, much more sensitive, and now includes, most, if not all, foreign-produced substances, and veterinary anabolic steroids.

Since the following guidelines are simply ones that have been determined utilizing all available information, from those directly involved with the drug testing, but you must be aware that at the actual time after which an athlete ingests any of the banned substances, until the test becomes negative, is determined not only by the size, age and sex of the athlete, but also the metabolic rate, the percentage of body fat, the dosage and amount as well as type and length of time on the specific steroids, which can also be related to diet, work-out schedule, and, of course, genetic differences.

Also, no one should infer from this that the USPF, or any of its constituent organizations, including the Sports Medicine Committee, in any respect, condones the utilization of anabolic steroids or any other substances that will help clear the body more rapidly of any residue of any of the banned substances previously taken.

So far as we are aware, there are no drugs or other substances that will allow the test to become negative as quickly as the USPF desires. None of the amino acid products will be tested for, nor are we aware of anything that can be quite dangerous, such as datura, or somatostatin and HCG, which are occasionally being utilized by the athlete, and which will be quite dangerous.

None of the amino acid products will be tested for, nor are they banned, but their efficacy with regard to strength producing has not been proven, yet scientifically. This includes some products called Somatostatin and HCG, which has now been documented that long-acting injectable substances, including decaburadol, can often be detected at least 3-4 months after utilization, and up to as long as 8-9 months in proven cases.

The oil-based injectables can be detected for at least 3 and possibly as long as 6 months following injection, especially if stacked, or utilized with other anabolic steroids.

The water-soluble testosterone can be detected, now, for several weeks after last utilized, and they are often detectable as long as 6-8 weeks. Testosterone : Epitestosterone ratio levels are also being checked.

Even the sublingual methyl-testosterone can test out positive at least 6 or 8 weeks, possibly longer, and the same time frame applies to halo-testin, anadrol, and primobolan.

As recommended in Ergogenesis, the following supplements are available from Weightlifter's Warehouse . . .

INOSINE

A cellular function activator, used to hold natural cellular, hormonal and steroid levels at high rate of readiness without resorting to drugs. Contains no sugar or yeast. Directions: Two capsules before your workout and one capsule directly after.

CYTOCHROME-C

A detailed survey of the literature over the past decade reveals a large body of work done on the relationship of the Cytochrome to an increase in muscle performance and endurance. Since Cytochrome C is a major link in the respiratory chain and muscle performance is dependent upon aerobic respiration, the implication are that for active chain and muscle performance is ineffective. The muscle cell metabolism switches to the alternate anaerobic pathway called Lactic Acid. As the Lactic Acid builds, muscle fatigue ensues, thus reducing total working time (endurance). Contains no sugar or yeast. Directions: One or two capsules 30 minutes before a workout and one capsule following your workout.

TRI-METHYL GLYCINE

A lipotropic-type substance which allows the metabolic process to rapidly convert fat to energy. Essential for endurance and staying power. Contains no sugar or yeast. Directions: One or two capsules before activity and one capsule after.

Message from the Masters Chairman

Attention Master Lifters: It is that time again, when we should be thinking about and preparing for our National Masters Championships. In accordance with the decision of the Masters Committee reached two years ago, the championships will cover three days - May 3, 4 and 5, to be held at the beautiful Sheraton Inn, Buffalo-East, Buffalo, N.Y. The annual meeting of the Masters Committee will be held at the host hotel on Friday evening at 7:30 P.M. The order of competition will begin at 10 A.M. Saturday morning with the 82.5 Kg. class (men), followed by the 90 Kg. class (men). On Sunday the 100 Kg. thru SHWT (men), and on Monday the balance of the lighter classes (men) plus all of the competition for women. Handsome awards will be given in the various classes through fifth place.

In response to numerous requests the members of the USPF World Masters team will be selected from among the outstanding lifters who total at (1) the National Masters (2) the National and (3) the Senior National Championships. Inssofar as the latter championships are concerned, only those Masters who have met the qualifying totals for those meets will be considered. A "guest" appearance at these meets will not suffice.

In no previous National Masters Championships has any mandatory drug testing of winners been in effect, and this policy will continue in 1986. However, the Executive Committee of the USPF has decided by unanimous vote that each lifter selected for a place on either of the two teams be given directions for obtaining voluntarily, at the applicant's expense, a test of his urine well in advance of the team's departure, as well as a pamphlet outlining the procedure. Any member of the 1986 team testing positive at the 1986 World Masters faces a three year suspension by both the I.P.F. and the USPF.

Respectfully, Don J. Haley, Chairman, U.S.P.F. Masters Committee

Many thanks to Chuck Bailey of Nashville, TN and Chuck Sprinkle of Paducah, KY for their support as referees. The meet saw several state records broken. Using the round robin format, the meet lasted about 5 hours with breaks between each event. While the quality of all events was not great, the quality was excellent as indicated by the results.

Richard Hart "Randy" Edwards*, Masters Referee D. Thanks to Elkhart Fitness Center for results.

the TEXAS Power Bar is a Maintenance® Free Bar

Biggest Bench in Eastern Europe comes from the Soviet Union. Next in line behind Lars Hedlund's 628 is the 584 pound effort of YURI TSCHELIBLITSCHIKOW of Moscow, USSR. According to Josef Svab, Czechoslovak Powerlifting Chairman, Yun first showed his talent by benching 507 at age 21, and less than one year later was up to the 584, made in January in Tallin, Estonia. He stands 74.8 inches tall, bodyweight approximately 285, chest 34.4 inches, arms 21.6 inches, forearms 17 inches and thighs a massive 30.3 inches. His squat and deadlift training is limited, but so far he has hit 628 and 661 and has totaled 150 kilos. Josef predicts that Yun will hit a 650 very soon, and notes that benches in the Soviet Union are done with a clasp. In accordance with IPF rules. Photo courtesy V. Pavailainen.
